

DISTANCE LEARNING PROGRAMS

The Woodruff School offers working professionals the opportunity to enroll in many of its graduate courses through video, CD-ROM, or Internet technologies. The distance-learning program has the same admission, course, and degree requirements as those for graduate students attending classes at the Atlanta campus or at Georgia Tech-Lorraine. Qualified individuals may complete the requirements for the master's degrees in mechanical engineering (MS ME) and medical physics (MS MP) by utilizing the distance-learning mode.

Distance Learning & Professional Education