

DUAL DEGREE MCRP/MASTER OF SCIENCE IN PUBLIC POLICY

The dual MS degree program in Public Policy and City and Regional Planning prepares students for policy analysis and planning work at the national, state, and local levels. Graduates work in public, private, and non-profit settings building on the complementary perspectives and skills of the two professions.

In addition to providing interdisciplinary professional training, the dual degree also provides the opportunity to step toward Ph.D. programs in either Public Policy or Planning with an emphasis on Urban, Environmental, or Economic Development Policy.

PUBP MS Information

All students must complete a minimum combined requirement of 75 credit hours for the dual degree program. Students receive both degrees.
