

MINOR IN LEARNING

The Minor in Learning is an interdisciplinary undergraduate minor offered jointly by the College of Lifetime Learning and the School of Psychology. Students of any Georgia Tech major are eligible to earn this minor. The minor equips students to understand how people learn across their lifespan, from cognitive and developmental foundations to the mechanisms of memory, and from technological innovations to societal contexts that shape education. Students explore the science behind obtaining, retaining, and applying knowledge in diverse settings: classrooms, workplaces, digital environments, and informal learning spaces. Students completing the minor will be prepared to evaluate and design effective learning experiences and bring evidence-based insights to any field, from healthcare and business to law and beyond.

Code	Title	Credit Hours
Required Courses
PSYC 3012	Introduction to Cognitive Psychology	3
	or PSYC 40 Cognitive Psychology
CLL 4803	Special Topics (Learning Experience Design)	3
Electives
Group 1 Electives: Cognitive and Developmental Factors (choose at least 3 hours)		3
	PSYC 2103 Human Development Over the Life Span
	PSYC 4025 Learning and Memory
	PSYC 4260 Psychology of Aging
	PSYC 4010 Human Abilities
Group 2 Electives: Biological/Neurological Factors (choose at least 3 hours)		3
	PSYC 3040 Sensation and Perception
	PSYC 4020 Biopsychology
	PSYC/ NEUR 4730 Neuroplasticity in Atypical Development
	PSYC 4090 Cognitive Neuroscience
	NEUR 4300 Neuroscience of Memory
Group 3 Electives: Applications/Skills (choose at least 3 hours)		3
	PSYC 2130 Introduction to Educational Psychology
	PSYC 4270 Psychological Testing
	CLL 4803 Special Topics (Learning Analytics Theory and Practice)
	CLL 4803 Special Topics (Learning Systems Analysis and Optimization)
	CLL 4803 Special Topics (Technology and AI Augmented Learning Environments)
	CLL 4803 Special Topics (Teaching Methods in Digital Learning Environments)
	PSYC/ NEUR 4697 Psychology Undergraduate Teaching Experience
Total Credit Hours		15